Full – We provide live play-by-play coverage for the entire game. We provide updated scores and time remaining as well as team- and player-level data in near real time. Full coverage is available for all regular and postseason games.

Extended Boxscore – We provide scores, time remaining, and team leaders (assists, points, and rebounds), in a timely manner, as the game progresses. We provide team- and player-level data for the game within 30 minutes of the official results being posted.

Note: Preseason coverage of NBA games may vary. Due to data-entry coverage (from venue) not being available, some games may be covered via our extended boxscore coverage.

Q: What is the scale of the X Y coordinates?

A: The court we use is 1128 by 600. The scale is in inches. Here is a layout of the court:

Q: What x/y vertices define action areas in the x/y coordinate graph?

A: A list of areas is included below. Note that these vertices are for the left side of the court. For the right side, we use the following calculation, where length=1128 and width=600:

right-court-point = (length - x, width - y)

Q: Why does the team_basket attribution in the play-by-play feed not match the basket orientation (left vs. right) in the broadcast or game tracking that I'm viewing?

A: Our team_basket attribution is set to match the orientation of the local television broadcast, which is on the opposite side of the scorer's table. The team_basket attribution may not match the orientation used by the particular broadcast or game tracker that you are viewing.

If you want to provide a perspective from the scorer's table, you will have to map the coordinates so that the coordinates attributed to left side of the court are attributed to the right side of the court on your end (and vice versa).

Q: What formulas are used to calculate efficiency and efficiency game score?

A: Here are the formulas we use:

Efficiency Game Score: $(\text{Points}) + (0.4 * \text{Field Goals Made}) - (0.7 * \text{Field Goals Attempted}) - (0.4 * \text{Free Throws Missed}) + (0.7 * \text{Offensive Rebounds}) + (0.3 * \text{Defensive Rebounds}) + (\text{Steals}) + (0.7 * \text{Assists}) + (0.7 * \text{Blocks}) - (0.4 * \text{Personal Fouls}) - (\text{Turnovers})$

Note: For this team efficiency calculations, statistics attributed to the team rather than a player are not counted (i.e. team rebounds, team turnovers, team fouls, etc.).
